Returning to Nikko, the party was divided between the Nikko and Kanaya hotels, both of which proved exceedingly pleasant and comfortable. Friday, Nov. 17, was spent in visiting the splendid temples and shrines of the locality. The grand, dark groves of gigantic cryptotncria, the autumn colors of the maples, the sparkling cascades, tumultuous river and lofty heights formed a unique and indelible picture. Saturday morning, Nov. 18, the party left Nikko at 8 o clock, and reached Ofuna at 1.46 p.m. Here it was divided into two sections, A and B, both of which visited Miyanoshita and Kamakura, though in opposite order, reuniting at Ofuna on Monday, Nov. 20. Miyanoshita. The Fujiya Hotel at this place was unanimously voted one of the in Japan, and the long trip by train...
