Excerpt: . BELLE BRITTAN AT NEWPORT. LETTER No. I.

Newport, > July 15, 1856. S My Dear: May I have an occasional corner in your virtuous sheet to tell the world what is going on at this delightful place ? If you print this, I shall go ahead and give you more of the same sort. If I draw largely on adjectives and superlatives, you must make due allowance for a young girl s enthusiasm who is just out --who sees the sea for the first time; and to whom a watering place and watering-place ways are novelties. Speaking of the old blue sea, which everybody has read of, reminds me of a shockingly severe conundrum proposed to us yesterday. A certain New-York editor, with whose name I dare not take liberties, was sitting in the carriage with us, quietly looking at the merry, motley...
